Survival equipment for emergencies: The NRS Pick-of-Life ice rescue awls

Reliable self-rescue on the ice

Safety on the ice is more than just being careful - it depends on having the right equipment. The NRS Pick-of-Life ice rescue ice awls is your indispensable companion for all activities on frozen waters. This robust ice awls was developed for self-rescue and enables you to free yourself from icy waters.

Developed for rapid deployment

In an emergency, every second counts. The NRS Pick-of-Life ice awls are designed to always be at hand - whether worn around your neck, stowed in your breast pocket or threaded through the sleeves of your jacket. This ensures that you can reach them immediately in the event of ice breakage without losing contact with the ice surface.

Sophisticated functions for maximum effectiveness

With the NRS picks, you can effectively pull yourself onto the ice while maintaining your body heat. The handling is intuitive: short arm movements and simultaneous swimming movements of the legs help you to free yourself safely and quickly from the water. Once on the ice, the flat body position allows you to distribute your weight evenly and thus minimise the risk of another breakage.

Precaution meets lifesaving

In addition to the immediate rescue function of the ice pick, the description contains valuable tips on preventing hypothermia and information on checking the thickness of the ice. The multi-layered structure of your clothing and the conscious choice of your route on the ice can significantly reduce the risk of accidents.

- The 10 cm long plastic handles each have a retractable sleeve that encloses the 2.5 cm long picks
- The 1.6 metre long cord, to which the 2 handles are attached, has a reflective lines for low light conditions

An indispensable tool for your safety

The NRS Pick-of-Life Ice Rescue ice awls is an indispensable tool for anyone who wants to enjoy the beauty of winter on natural ice surfaces without neglecting their own safety. And don't forget: The Pick-of-Life is designed for self-rescue. If another person is in distress, it is important to call for professional help and leave the rescue to the professionals.
