In 1962, Hannu Kangas carved a bait from pine bark, which resulted in the Nils Master bait range. Using modern technology, Hannu Kangas formed the BeteZap model in 2009, which imitates a small fish. The BeteZap bait is made of polymers. Its shape, colors and swimming movement are an irresistible combination for many wild fish. The movement of the Zap is particularly attractive in fast flowing waters. When trolling, the bait is extremely catchy at both low and high trolling speeds and works particularly well for zander and pike throughout the fishing season. The bait is suitable for both casting and trolling.
