Soft jerkbait

This extraordinary jerk combines the advantages of a hard lure with the advantages of a rubber bait.

The Prorex Jelly Jerk can be easily glided with slight rod movements, the bait breaks out sideways. When catching up, the bait sinks very slowly with flanking movements. Due to the slow sinking behavior, the Jelly Jerk is particularly suitable for fishing in flat areas and over cabbage. The jelly jerk can be run very slowly.

By using a soft, jelly-like body material, a predatory fish holds this bait in its mouth a little longer than conventional hard bait - so you can book a better bite yield, especially on difficult days. The body material is designed so that it does not break even after numerous pike attacks. You get a bait that is almost identical in durability to a hard jerk.

The internal "wire-through" system with continuous wire gives you the security that this bait can withstand extremely heavy loads.
