The Beaver 65 lives up to its name - if you look at it closely, you immediately see the resemblance to its namesake, because of the jutting legs and the flat tail. Combined with the body of the Chub and Jumbo series co-developed by Vice World Champion Ugis Gross, this makes the Beaver an incredible, totally one-of-a-kind bait, that, thanks to its extremities, emits strong vibrations.

The swimming behavior is absolutely outstanding and resembles that of a tadpole or a small frog, an absolute delicacy of trout, perch, zander and pike. The appearance in combination with the irresistible garlic attractant make this rubber a real danger to all freshwater predators

The Beaver 65 is fished either with a single hook, with a small jig head, as Dropshot mounting, as Carolina Rig or with upstream bead.
