The two large Sorcerers 125 and 150 are traded in Australia as the best Barramundi baits and work excellent in this part of the world on zander and pike.

Whether casted or trolled, the Sorcerer is equally successful in both methods and always shows its best side when he flanks to both sides in his already shaky run. This is due to the special butterknife tail and the specially shaped diving lip.

The latter is made of bullet-proof material, as it is used in the production of bulletproof windowpanes. That makes the lips extremely durable.

While the standard version (STD) runs at depths of around 3m, the Deepdiver version (DD) makes it to a stately 5m, which is already remarkable for a bait in such a weight class. Because the diving lips are replaceable, you can try any color at any depth and build your very own high performance bait.
