The Coastguard 310 10-45g should actually be called Catapult, it's unbelievable how easily this rod brings the bait to a distance! When fishing for sea trout, the Coastguard is in its prime discipline. In addition to its light weight, perfect balance and unbelievable casting distances, the almost endless tension of the blank is particularly convincing. The Coastguard holds the fish under tension like a bungee cord and has enough backbone to guide any trout safely around any stone. With a rod length of 3.10m and a casting weight of 10-45g, the Coastguard 310 allows you to take your trout lures to unimaginable distances and present your lures where others can no longer reach. The semi-parabolic blank supports you in this, charging up ideally during the cast and having enough reserves to safely land even the strongest mefos. The blank withstands unbelievable loads, it can easily handle a 6 kg sea trout and can bend up to 45° - a rod you can rely on in extreme cases!
