Not only because of the increasing transport prices, more and more customers are switching to a travel rod that can be split multiple times. Hearty Rise spent 2 seasons working on this until they got the rod series ready and were confident that the balance between action, weight, resilience and fishing fun was perfect. The jigging models are more designed for fishing in northern latitudes such as Norway or Iceland. The 340g version is a slow jigging model and accordingly equipped with a softer action. It can also be managed very well with lighter baits.
